Roofsafe Industrial Safety (RIS) is a market leader in the provision of the world's premium fall protection systems and services.

RIS has been working with the transport industry to develop a safety system to be used in curtain-sided trucks (tautliners) to provide protection during the loading and unloading of trucks. The patented SafeTruck Safety System comprises of a specially designed rail system that is attached to the roof extrusion of the truck.

The design of the system allows a simultaneous bilateral (lengthways and sideways) movement which directly corresponds to the location of the person using the system and the direction in which the person is moving.

This unique design ensures that the system does not interfere with the loading and unloading of the truck.

The SafeTruck Safety System provides the highest level of safety by ensuring that a self retracting lifeline (inertia reel) is positioned at all times above the person's head while using the system.

The safetruck safety system can be fitted to the truck at the clients premises or alternatively at the local RIS branch.
